

The language, lack of decency, sexual innuendo, and commercials that are displayed in the media is dispicable, to say the least. A person cannot view a television program with their child or grandchild without embarrassment, or anger. Our children are being bombarded by sex, violence and indecent exposure whenever they access the media. It's about time that the "powers that be", start having a conscience instead of trying to make a profit, at our children's expense. There needs to be control of this situation. What happened to the moral code? People are taking the first amendment, way out of context, and are using it in a very destructful and morally wrong interpretation. We need to have the FCC act now! Bring back decency to our children, and the population, who are sick and appalled at what is allowed to run rampant in the media.
